BESIDE HER GRAVE.

Conrad Scheller Suicides in the Peninsula Cemetery.

AFTER LYING DOWN AT THE SIDE

OF THE GRAVE OF HIS WIFE, WHO DIED SEVERAL YEARS AGO-THE RECENT DEATH OF A NIECE, WHO KEPT HOUSE FOR

HIM, CAUSED HIM TO THINK THIS WORLD TOO LONELY-ONE BALL FROM HIS REVOLVER SUFFICIENT-NO RELATIVES IN

Conrad Scheller walked into the Peninsula cemetery yesterday afternoon. Then, lying down on his back at full length, beside his wife's graye, he sent a bullet'crashing through his right temple. Death was instantaneous, though the body was not discovered until 4:30 o'clock, an hour after the shot was heard.

Scheller owned a lot in the eastern portion of the cemetery. No one noticed him entering the cemetery, and as parties often go hunting on the hill nearby, no alarm was felt when the renearby, no alarm was felt when the report of the revolver shot was heard. The dead man was discovered by Walter Miller, who is employed about the cemetery, and he supposed that Schelter was some man who was drunk, or had fallen asleep. Miller had gobe in that part of the cemetery to get a drink, but wasn't very close to the dead man. When he informed Sexion Chester Dean of what he had seen, the latter investigated and soon saw by the revolver at Scheller's side, that the deceased had ended his own career.

Scheller was about sixty years of age, of German birth, and was employed for years at the Elig carringe factory. His wife, it is said, committed suicide by hanging herself at their home in North Wheeling, about five years ago. Scheller boarded for some time at the Old Home hotel on North Market street, but for the past two years has lived in his own house, at 462 Market street, His niley reliative known of is a daughter, Mrs. Peter Sadier, of Washington, Pa. Her husband is a potter and formerly worked in Wheeling. Efforts to communicate with them were made last night, but were uneuccessful, and Mrs. Sadier is expected to arrive today. The remains were taken to Bertschy's undertaking establishment and there viewed by Coroner Schultze, who rendered a verdict of suicide. No date has been set for the interment until something is heard from the dead man's relatives.

From a note Scheller left, the reasons for his ast are hinted at. The note was port of the revolver shot was heard.

till something is heard from the dead man's relatives.

From a note Scheller left, the reasons for his act are hinted at. The note was written in German, and contained references to a promise to follow his deceased mece to another land. He was very fond of his nicee and had brooded over her death. Since her demise he had lived by himself, and the sense of loneliness was more than he could combat, so he decided on joining his wife and niece in the great beyond.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

The fallure of the credit balance oil market to advance another point was rather a disappointment, but the feeling is one of confidence in an advance to th dollar mark or higher. The belief that better prices will soon prevail is mainly dotter prices will soon prevail is mainly responsible for much of the new work starting in the local fields. This is also an incentive for the lower southwest operator to begin with renewed energy; besides he has before him the possibility of finding new pools. The latter promise is scarcely entertained by an operator outside of West Virginia. He will be content with drilling over the old fields or devoting his time to rejuvenating the old wells. With closer attention and an occasional shot a large propertion of the old producers can be made to increase their output, and in the end it is a safer method than drilling additional wells.

Northeast of the Fonner pool in Greene county Tim Ross and Barnsdall drilled in their well on the Ross farm, and indications are all in favor of a big duster.

In the Big Injun sand territory in Wetzel county the South Penn Company completed No. 5 on the W.T. Price farm, and has an So-barrel producer.

In the deep sand territory near String-

In the deep sand territory near String-town, Tyler county, Mary Lemaster's No. 1 was drilled into the stray above ine Gordon.

On the Mells tract in Wetzel county the Kanawha Oil Company shot its No.

26 on the Mills tract, and increased its production to 200 barrels a day. Near Dorscyville, Allegheny county, the Bridgewater Gas Company drilled in a test well on the P. Younker farm, and has a show of oil in the 100-foot.

THE STATE FAIR.

Arrangements for the Big Exposition are Progressing Fast. It has been many years since applications for exhibitors' space and entries in live stock lists crowded in upon the officlais of the West Virginia State Fair Association so rapidly as at present Secretary George Hook yesterday stated that space in the main building and in other departments was diminishing at a rapid galt. In machinery hall there small multitude of spaces marked off for the men who will come from all parts of the country with every con-ceivable form of agricultural impleceivable form of agricultural implements.

In the cattle, sheep, and swine lists entries are pouring in heavily with almost each mail. It seems pretty certain that these lists will be pretty well filled several days before the fair opens. Another department that is receiving much attention is the speed programme. Entries have been received in number sufficient to indicate that the race events will be participated in by an unusually large number of horses. Not near all of the speed entries have been received, but they are coming as fast as could be expected. If the rate keeps up, and it likely will, there will be more horses than ever on the track in the big events. The fair association has several men out billing over three hundred towns in West Virginia, northern and eastern Ohio and in western Pennsylvania. From all quarters come reports that interest in the fair is active, and more apparent than ever before.

THE SPECIAL GRAND JURY Of the Criminal Court Meets and Finds Several True Bills.

The criminal court's special grand jury called westerday morning accomplished its work in a single day, something not usual with grand juries of this court, which are generally called upon to investigate a large number of criminal cases. On this occasion there was little criminal business up for investigation. The jury was composed of vestigation. The jury was composed of the following gentlemen: William F. Stifel, foreman; Theodore W. Fink, Wil-liam Goehring, Albert Beltz, Elmer Nichols, William H. Hornish, Robert Nesbitt, Bernard Klevis, John Keller, Albert Schane, George Crumbacker, H. W. AMUSEMENTS.

Of the Cleveland-Wilson minstrels which open the Opera House season next Monday, the Pittsburgh Times says: It glistens with bright lights, abounds in bright colors and its first part introduces some very pleasant effects. The opening of the performance is brought about as cleverly as anything given during the evening. When the curtain rolls up not a soul is seen the curtain rolls up not a soul is seen on the stage. Grouped about are large, gilttering frames, swinging from which are sliken curtains. Suddenly these are drawn aside and within the frames are revealed the company, the effect being that of a gallery of life-sized framed portraits. Another innovation is the introduction of specialty work in the opening of the entertainment. Tambourines and bones are conspicuous by their absence throughout the evening. But there are end men, and funny ones—George Wilson, "Billy" Emerson, John Queen and E. M. Hall. They were all in fine fettle and kept up such a running fire of quip and jest that the audience was in an uproar of merriment.

FROM THE MOMENT OF BIRTH USE CUTICURA SOAP. It is not only the purest, sweetest, and most refreshing of oursery soaps, but it contains delicate emollient properties obtained from Cuticura, the great skin cure, which purify and beautify the skin, and remove skin blemishes occasioned by imperfect cleansing and the continued use of impure soaps. Parents, think of the lifetime of suffering, mental as well as physical, often entailed by torturing, disfiguring humors, carelessly neglected disfiguring humors, carelessly neglected in infancy, which might have been eas lly and permanently cured by timely at-tention and a moderate use of Cuticura and Cuticura Soap.
